MISSISSIPPI,

The Crops-Cotton Prospect-Political Affairs-The Future.

Editors Appeal-During a trip within the last two weeks down the Missisippl and Tennessee railroad, and Misand Carroll, I was struck with the indierent appearance of the crops immediately on the line of those roads. With ery few exceptions, the crops of cotton and corn are very unpromising, but I earn from reliable sources that a short stance both east and west of the road, e crop promises a fair yield; indeed, me farmers say they are making as good ps as they have in several years. In Choctaw county the crops are represented as very good. Should we be favored with a late and dry fail, I have no doubt the crop of cotton in those counties will ex-ceed that of last year. Resides the pros-their political status. So far as I could discover, they appear to have seitled down in dispair of arresting the progress of the black and tan Radical party now in the ascendant in that giorious State.

This reflection is a painful and mortifying one to every lover of free Constitutional government. Perhaps when the tyranny and oppression lately experienced by the people of North Carolina shall be visited upon Mississippi, her people, like old Rip Van Winkle, may be induced to rise in their majesty and hurl from power the corrupt minions of Radicaliam and misrula. Tennessesans the results of the celebrated New York photographier, was elected President, and our talented, genial friend, William H. Moyston, of Momphis, Vice President. Mr. Moyston is a man still in the early part of his "twenties," but he ha adicalism and misrule. Tennesseeans coptible animation, in his pictures, bould feel grateful and proud of the something that says at once, "how very phrical condition of their noble State natural!" There is sublimity in the idea political condition of their noble State when compared with that of others in the South. True, the enemies of free government are not entirely conquered—"the snake has been scotched, not killed;" but in November we have reason to believe that Tennessee will be redeemed and disinthralled from the power of the corrupt party, under whose scourge she has colong and so deeply anfiered. This result can only be attained by the united efforts of all who wish to be released from the dominion of the corrupt Radical party, and desire to restore the State to its former free and happy condition. no time to halt on account of old party prejudices, or dislikes engendered years ago. We must see that there are but two ago. We must see that there are but two parties in the country—one siming to override the constitution of our fathers and establish a centralized government with unlimited powers in Congress; the other battling under the Democratic banner for the destruction of the Radical party, and the restoration of the Government to its former condition under the old Constitution. There is no middle ground. As an old-line Clay Whig for forty years, I feel no hesitancy in anataining any party whose object is to destroy Radicalism and restore the Government to its former status. "A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether," will insure a Radical defaul in November, that will asterniah friends and foes. A.

It is one of the best indexes of an advancing civilization that art is asserting itself not only in the luxuries but the common articles of every-day life. The ware that decks our tables, the beds we sleep on all bear the traces of an artistic effort struggling out of crude forms. Iron and wood and paper all bear the impress of this artistic age in the doors of our houses and the iron round our graves. The great mass of humanity is gradually being converted to the idea that it is as well to have artistically made what one is forced to use as to have it otherwise, especially when it can be pur-| Coroner's Inquest--Trivial Causes, Etc. | Converted to the day in Monphila, and in consequence of his repolity increasing business, we are plaused to observe that Mr. W. It is rude at best, and only exciting to the extent that superior physical forces and quickness of movement outstrip slothfulness. Billiards will be the favorite slothfulness. Billiards will be the favorite means of amusement when base ball is utterly forgotten, as planchette and velocipedes. There is a mathematical precision of movement required, and conformation of muscular force and direction to a mentally drawn geomitrical figure, which begets the most pleasing montal and physical excitement and action. The muscles and brain are alike actively employed, and in this consists acknowledged superiority of the game of billiards over all others approved by American taste and by the most refused and intellectual people of all civilized countries. The French have devoted a high intelligence; to the perfection of popular amusements. Parisians have the choicest popular delights; and while Frenchmen deem tiliards a fine art, Americans have even transcended them, not only as players, but in the production of tables which are fullless. The finest, those giving the balls an equal rebound from every apot a round the inside of the table, are made in the United States. Those of Phelan & Collender are pronounced the best manufactured in the world, and none others will be used by the skilled players of this city. There is not an appliance of taste or luxury or art, or a beverage that should be found about such an establishment which Willett's doss not supply. Go witness if you de not participate in the sport—see how tastefully the great rooms are decorated and listen to the clicking and clashing of ivory balls. There's music in it for an accomplished billisrd player. The place is on Adams, between Main and Second streets.

WE CALL ATTENTION to the card in another column of Fowlkes & Steffey, estion and commission merchants. This firm is one of the cidest and most responsible in Manphis. Mr. Fowlkes stands among the most upright gentlemen engaged in an example it is in the United States, and is among the oldest of our merchants. We ask for him an increase of business from our planters and farmers. His particular to the clicking and clashing of ivory balls. There's music in it for an accomplished billisrd player. MORE OF THE SENATORIAL CONVENTION

Editors Appeal—Your correspondent, "Democrat," I taink, truly represents the feelings of the people of this county outside the limits of Memphis, when he says that wide-spread discontent exists among them. I trust it may not be deemed obtrusive in me to take up this question, and mass convention:

"All these delegates to be chosen with due regard to the claims of the various districts of the county and wards of the city."

Now if this meant anything, it meant

Can the nominee of this convention expect the energetic support of those people whose rights have been so ignored? When we remember the Radical majority in Fayette we have to combat, does it not become the party leaders to conserve and harmonize every element of strength, to secure the hearty co-operation of every voter in the county? If it does, it seems to me that they have adocted a strange to me that they have adopted a strange Hearn that the first ward in the city
